Pikuni Grilled Ham and Cheese ~ 7.59

Settle in for this hearty sandwich made with grilled ham, Swiss cheese & tomato on sourdough bread.

The Blackfeet Indians (Pikuni) are one of four closely related bands of the Blackfoot Confederacy, all members of the greater Algonquian linguistic family. The Blackfeet of Montana are the only Plains group to have a reservation in the United States; the other three groups occupy reserves in southern Alberta, Canada.

Joe Cosley's Chicken Bacon Wrap ~ 8.59

This chicken club in a zesty cheddar tortilla with lettuce and tomato is quite a catch. The report from your Belly River District will be "dang good food!"

Joe was the first park ranger hired in Glacier Park's Belly River District. Instead of upholding the sanctity of the abundant wildlife, he began poaching. When this was discovered, his dramatic escape to Canada secured his place in the lore of Glacier National Park.

The Lyman Sperry Cool Veggie Wrap ~ 7.99

A peak experience with cucumbers, shredded carrots, diced tomato, lettuce, avocado & sunflower seeds rolled in a spinach tortilla with yogurt dressing.

A Professor of zoology and geology, Lyman Sperry was also a mountain climber. In 1886 he reached the glacier which now bears his name.

Ruhle's Roast Beef ~ 8.99

There's nothing to compare with our cold roast beef sandwich served with Swiss cheese, red onions, lettuce, tomato and mayonnaise on a wheat, sourdough, or swirled rye bread. This distinguished sandwich Ruhles.

George Ruhle, Glacier National Park's first chief naturalist, named many landmarks within the park. He became the U.S. Park Service's international ambassador and was awarded the Distinguished Service Award, the Department of the Interior's highest award.

The Tom Dawson Patty Melt ~ 8.99

Our 1/3 lb. Montana burger topped with melted Swiss on swirled rye is a classic. Cross the divide but don't pass up this long-standing favorite!

This mountain man, explorer, guide & adventurer lived in the Glacier area & on the Blackfoot Reservation for more than fifty years. Famous artist Winold Reiss painted his portrait and a mountain pass in Glacier now bears his name.

James Willard Schultz's Buffalo Brat ~ 7.59

Our incredible buffalo bratwurst is served with sauerkraut & whole grain mustard. Mmmmm...this brat makes quite a story!

James Willard Schultz lived among the Blackfeet Indians and authored more than 30 written works, including the popular books My Life as an Indian and Blackfeet Tales of Glacier National Park.
